

WHAT IS IT

A loud, pass-the-phone party game

Omo Naija is a Nigerian word-guessing party game. Teams take turns: one person describes Nigerian slang, food, music, and culture while their teammates shout out guesses before the timer runs out. Won cards pile up per team -- the tallest stack wins.

THE APP

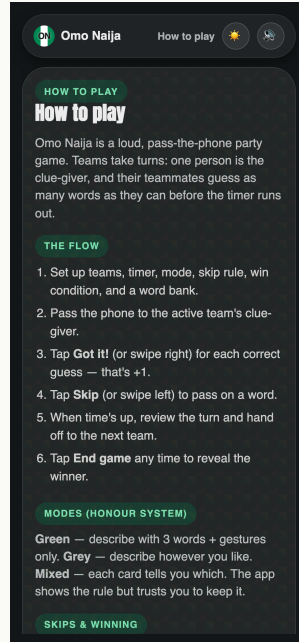

Every screen, built for the room

Designed dark, bold, and readable at arm's length. Every screen has one job -- no clutter, no confusion.

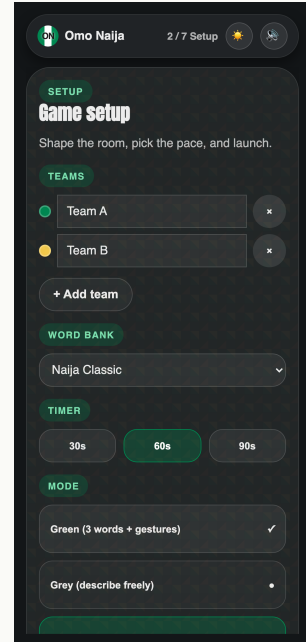

Home

Tap Play and go.

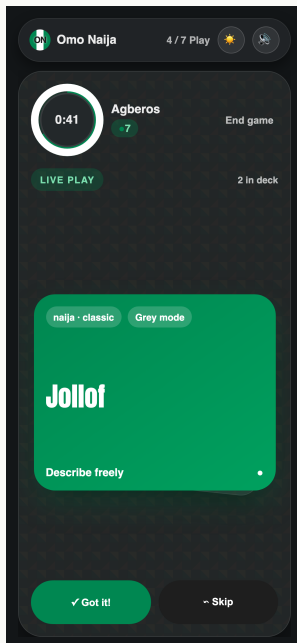

How to Play

Rules in 30 seconds.

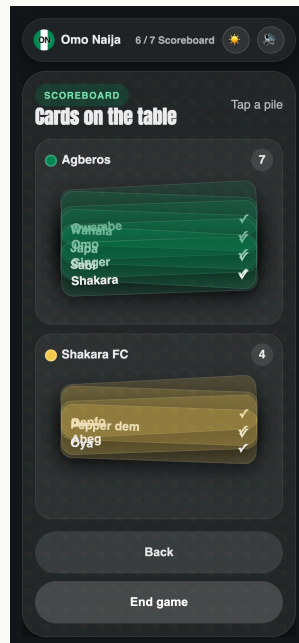

Setup

Teams, timer, mode.

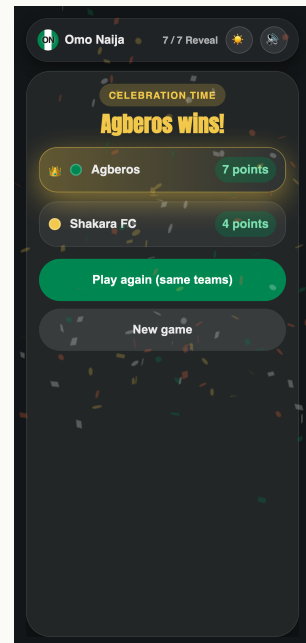

Live Play

60 seconds on the clock.

HOW IT WORKS

Five steps, infinite banter

1

Set up

Add 2-6 teams, pick a timer (30 / 60 / 90s), a word bank, and a mode.

2

Pass the phone

Hand it to the clue-giver. The rest of the team can't peek.

3

Describe

Green mode: 3 words + gestures only. Grey mode: describe freely. Mixed: card decides.

4

Got it! or Skip

Tap Got it! (or swipe right) to score +1. Tap Skip (swipe left) to move on.

5

End game

Tap End game any time. Scores reveal, winner crowned, confetti drops.

FEATURES

Built for parties, not app stores

Card stacks

Won cards pile up visually per team. The tallest stack is winning at a glance.

Two modes

Green (3 words + gestures) or Grey (describe freely). Honour system -- the app shows the rule and trusts you.

Fully configurable

Timer length, skip rules (free / limited / penalty), and win conditions are all set at game start.

Custom word banks

Add your own bank in Settings -- one word per line, optional hints. Perfect for office parties or family reunions.

Offline + installable

Install as a PWA from your phone browser. Works with zero internet once installed.

Resume any time

Close the tab mid-game, reopen later -- the game is saved exactly where you left off.

Enjoy, and may the best team chop the win.

No wahala.
